SIMPLICITY AT ITS FINEST

WORDS: KRISTIE BERTUCCI PHOTOS: BRIAN MCGEE

Some people need to flaunt their success with a garage filled with cars they don't even drive, while others prefer to take a modest approach. Pro skateboarder Greg Lutzka belongs in the latter category. The veteran skater has been riding the streets, racking up sponsors and cashing skate competition checks for a while now, but his taste for the finer things in life is pretty simple. All he needs is his BMW 5-Series and his two Harley-Davidsons to make him happy. This is Lutzka's second BMW and is his best yet (the first one he bought after winning his first skate competition).

"I've always been into European cars since I was young," he says. "Those kinds of cars are just awesome cars to drive, especially German ones. They handle so well and are really stylish, which is probably why I've always liked them. My first Bimmer, I drove from Milwaukee, WI to California and drove that thing for a few years until my career picked up and I bought a Bentley GT."

After selling his Bentley, Lutzka decided to go back to his first true love and a 5-Series was his first choice. "I test drove other cars and even had an Audi before, but didn't like it and got rid of it," he confesses. "Nothing beats a Bimmer and what's great about them is that they're not too expensive, yet still luxurious and are fun to drive. They have great interiors, their suspension handles really well and it's seriously one of the best rides I've ever owned."

Simplicity is key for Lutzka, so elaborate modifications were out of the question. All he needed to enhance the look of his Bavarian

“NOTHING BEATS A BIMMER AND WHAT'S GREAT ABOUT THEM IS THAT THEY'RE NOT TOO EXPENSIVE, YET STILL LUXURIOUS, AND ARE FUN TO DRIVE.”

TV Film Commercial:

Accepted Movie: Greg Lutzka Stunt Double - Accepted is a 2006 American comedy film directed by Steve Pink and written by Adam Cooper, Bill Collage, and Mark Perez. The main plot centers around a group of would-be college freshmen who, after being rejected from all the colleges and universities to which they had applied, proceed to create their own "college".

Box office

The film opened at No. 5 at the U.S. box office making $10,023,835 in its opening weekend, behind Snakes on a Plane, Talladega Nights: By the end of its run on October 19, 2006, Accepted had grossed $36,323,505 domestically and $2,181,504 internationally, adding up to a worldwide total of $38,505,009[2]

Man In The Chair Movie: Greg Lutzka Stunt Double - Man in the Chair is a 2007 independent film written and directed by Michael Schroeder. The film stars Christopher Plummer, Michael Angarano, M. Emmet Walsh, and Robert Wagner. The drama stars Christopher Plummer as Flash, a man who longs for the days when he worked as a crew member on such cinematic masterpieces as Citizen Kane. When Flash meets teenage film fanatic Cameron Kincaid (played by Michael Angarano), he becomes an unlikely mentor and agrees to help Cameron make a film to compete in a student competition where the top prize is a film school scholarship and, for Cameron, a ticket out of his difficult home life. Flash, who sees his own life drawing to a close recruits the support of his eccentric friends at the Motion Picture home and helps Cameron make his film and chase his dream.
